

New Era Roofs

The 12-Step Sales Process

Step-by-step · Four phases: Connect · Discover · Present · Close

1. Preparation / Arrival / Meet & Greet — 0-5 minutes in Task: Scope the neighborhood, identify roof trends that will help you in the conversation. Have your devices ready for action. Introduce yourself and the company in a nice, friendly way. Deliver the goodie bag, and ask to head inside.

“Hey [client name], my name is [your name] and I am with New Era Roofs. I am here for our [time of visit] visit. (Shake hand.) [Client name], is my truck parked over there, okay? (Point.) Great — well, this goody bag is for you. I hope you enjoy it. Listen, is it okay if we head inside and sit down somewhere, so we can explore what’s going on? Great, let me put my booties on.” (Head inside.)

2. Warm Up / Questionnaire — 6-30 minutes in

Task: Establish trust with the customer and find key information to be used in the conversation as you make progress to the close.

A. Warm Up (Trust)

Find common ground (FORM questions — Family / Occupation / Recreation / Motivation) using the things you see around you in the home. Start with:

“So tell me — what’s new with you guys?”

B. Questionnaire

The most important questions to answer in this step: Who are the players? When does the customer want this project done? Why am I here? How are they funding this project — introduce funding and get the customer pre-approved.

Run the Homeowner Discovery Form (its own document in the Field Kit) — including the ★ write-it-verbatim question whose answer comes back at the Final Bridge.

Transition: “I’ve asked you a lot of questions — what questions do you have for me before I get up there?”

Permission: “Would it be alright with you if I got up there, showed you exactly what I found, and walked you through what it’ll take to handle this the right way?”

“Great — do you have about 30–40 more minutes? Do you have to take a call, go somewhere, etc.?”

GoodLeap / Soft Pull Transition

“Now, before I investigate the possible challenges on your roof, I want to make sure we’re not wasting your time or mine. Let me pull up what you can potentially qualify for through GoodLeap — it’s a soft pull, zero impact on your credit score, and it takes two minutes. That way, when I come back with numbers, I can show you exactly what this looks like out of pocket versus monthly. Sound good?”

[Run the soft pull.]

“Most people are surprised by what they qualify for — especially with the promotional rates we have right now.”

3. Upfront Contract — 5 minutes, after Step 2

Task: Gain mutual agreement that the customer is comfortable expressing whether to move forward and understands the next steps.

“With your permission, here is what the rest of our visit will look like today. First, I’m going to complete an investigation of your roof. This includes walking around the property (and getting into your attic space); this will allow me to take pictures and videos. I will share the pictures and videos with you after my inspection, along with my recommendation. If my recommendation is to repair or replace your roof, then I will be able to share multiple options and prices with you at the end of our conversation today. Next, I will make sure you are comfortable with everything. I’ll share with you about our company, I’ll show you our materials, and we will talk about the installation process. Now, if you are comfortable with everything, then it’s my job to make it affordable. If I make it affordable, then I did my job and I’ll be able to get your project on our installation schedule. If not, then I came as a stranger, and I left as a friend. Sounds good?”

“Safe Space” close:

“Now, the most important thing is this: I want you to know that I can take ‘NO’ just as graciously as I can take a ‘YES.’ If for some reason we are not a good fit — I don’t see that as being the case, but if it is — this is a ‘Safe Space.’ I want you to feel comfortable telling me ‘No.’ Sounds good?”

4. Investigation — 15 minutes, after Step 3

Task: Take pictures (20+ minimum) and video evidence in the attic or exterior to assess and make a diagnosis.

Transition: “Alright, let’s take a look at what I found.”

5. Discovery Presentation — 10 minutes, after Step 4

Task: Present evidence to the customer. Go over pictures and videos from the investigation and let the pictures do the talking. You want to know what the customer thinks about what they just saw, rather than you analyzing it for them.

“Now, what are you feeling after seeing these pictures and videos?” (pause — wait for the answer) “Yeah, I agree. I’m afraid a repair is not going to solve this problem. Are we in agreement?” (wait for response)

Transition: “Now that we agree it’s a replacement — let me ask you straight. Would you be against me walking you through everything — the company, the materials, the options — even if at the end the answer is no?”

6. Slide Deck Presentation — 5-10 minutes, after Step 5

Don’t tell them what’s on the slide — ask them what they make of it. Every slide ends with a question that hands the floor back. The participation isn’t just rapport — it’s reconnaissance.

1. Cover — Protecting What Matters Most. Callback, not a question: “You told me earlier the main thing was [their Discovery answer]. I’m going to keep coming back to that.”
2. Industry Reality. “Home improvement leads every single industry in complaints — more than 10 million last year. Roofing is one of the worst offenders in that category. Why do you think that is?”
3. Three Types of Contractors. “Before I show you why we land where we do — which of these three have you dealt with before?” [Quiet — let them tell the story.]
4. Most Common Homeowner Fears. “Remember those 10 million complaints I just showed you? This is what they actually look like at the kitchen table — these three fears. Which of these hits closest to home for you?”
5. The Protected Property Guarantee. “Of these four pillars, which one is the most important to you?” ... “Why is that so important to you?” [Stay quiet.]
6. Price Transparency — Cost vs. Value Report. “Have you heard of the Cost vs. Value Report?” (the Kelley Blue Book of roofing)
7. Installation Process. “When you picture a crew up on your roof — which of these steps would you want to be dead sure doesn’t get rushed or skipped?”
8. Your Options — Good, Better, Best. “As I walk through these — which one of these options aligns most with you and your family’s needs and safety?”
9. Before We Talk Numbers — Are We Aligned? Three tie-downs: “Does it make sense that doing it right the first time costs less than doing it twice?” · “Would you agree the cost of waiting on this usually ends up higher than the cost of handling it now?” · “And fair to say the crew on your roof matters more than the brand on the shingle?”

Only sourced numbers: 10.7M complaints; the 64% seven-year price move. Nothing that dies to a Google search at the kitchen table.

7. Product Presentation — 10 minutes, after Step 6

Task: Build the roof. Roof in a bag, materials of different qualities, GBB packages — the customer builds their own roof.

Transition: “After seeing these materials, would you settle for anything less for your roof / home?”

8. Final Bridge

Task: Get the customer to commit that there are NO objections other than price and affordability.

“Other than the price and affordability, is there any reason why I couldn’t get you on the schedule while I’m here? (No.) Great — next step is we’re going to build out your options. We transfer the measurements from the EagleView report into a data form, and we will get 3 options for you. I cannot manipulate numbers. Give me a couple of minutes to build these options for you.”

Create the estimate with the customer (about 5 minutes) — ask them to participate.

9. Pricing Presentation

Before pricing is shown: “Out of the 3 packages that we just went over (GBB), which one do you feel fits your needs the best?” [Get the answer.] “What made you pick that package?” [Compliment the customer.]

Price & Value Guarantee

“Now, before we jump into the elephant in the room, which is your investment, I want to share with you one of the reasons I work for this company and why I love this company so much... and it’s our Price & Value Guarantee. A few years ago our owner wanted to change the way people bought home improvement. He wanted to bring peace of mind back into the home improvement process, and the way he is going to do this is by allowing you to go ahead and take advantage of the discounts and incentives we have available while I’m here today — and he’s going to continue to let you shop us out until the day of the install. [Homeowner name], have you heard of anybody that offers that?” (Wait.)

“Yeah — so what it says, Mr. Homeowner, is that if you find someone that does EXACTLY (pause) what we do and EXACTLY (pause) how we do it, and they can do all that for less than what I’m about to show you, then I need you to bring that back to me in writing, and we will refund you the difference — plus I’m going to give you $100 for the fact that you found someone that I haven’t spoken to or learned about... So is that the peace of mind you’re looking for when you first called New Era Roofs?” (Wait.)

PRESENT PRICES. BE QUIET.

Retail prices first, Best — Good: “So this is full retail for the project — this is what it costs to do it the right way.” Re-confirm their option. Then discounts, Best — Good.

10. Primary Close

Universal flow: Objection lands → FM DJ voice → mirror their words + 4-second silence → acknowledge → formed question only if the mirror stalls → reassure/overcome → land on PRICE → re-close → T.O. chain. Whoever talks first after the mirror loses. Full price is the ONLY price for the rep.

“Okay, well it sounds like you’re excited to get started, because you told me you want [benefit]. Is [GBB option] the one you would like to move forward with?”

[If no:] “Is it the monthly investment or the total cash investment that doesn’t quite make sense to you?”

Tools: tie downs, cinch the knot, the Triangle (great company & warranties / top products / lowest price — pick two), Cost vs. Value, the Price & Value Guarantee. Objection scenarios live in the Pivot Points Playbook.

11. Call to Manager

Task: Convey that there may be some price relief (if there is certainty of the will to move forward). Do not ask for the call — introduce it as a way to give the customer what they need. Call the manager every single time. Domino / Jenga framing.

“Let’s take a crack at it and find out what it is.”

T.O. Chain: Your Manager → whoever your Manager designates as second/third → Jose H. Full price is the ONLY price for the sales rep; if a discount is given, it comes from the manager.

12. Cool Down / Next Steps

Task: Take away the sale — resell why the customer made the right decision. Confirm commitment. Not sold? Take away discounted prices — the original estimate is good for 45 days. No unsold exit without a locked next step (SAMFAM).

“Congratulations, it will be a pleasure working on your project. But before I put this in, I want to be absolutely sure that there is no reason that you may want to turn around and cancel it.”
