

The Training Protocol

How to Master the 12-Step Sales Process and the Pivot Points Without Burning Out

Internal Training • Companion to the 12-Step Sales Process, Pivot Points Playbook, and 22-KPI Scoring Definitions

The Six Principles Behind the Protocol

Every design choice below comes from these six findings. Understand them and the protocol stops being a schedule and becomes a system.

1. Retrieval beats review. Testing yourself from a blank page strengthens memory two to three times more than re-reading. Never study the 12-step by reading it. Study it by closing the document and reproducing it.
2. Spacing beats massing. Six 20-minute sessions across a week beat one 2-hour session — same total time, roughly double the retention. Short daily sessions are the correct instinct.
3. Overlearn the verbatim, understand the rest. Under pressure, you fall to your level of automaticity, not your level of knowledge. Verbatim anchor scripts must be drilled past the point of first mastery — that is what makes them survive a live objection. Everything else needs comprehension, not memorization.
4. Chunk before you memorize. The brain holds about four chunks at once. You do not learn 12 steps plus segments — you learn 4 phases, then the steps inside each phase, then the segments inside each step. Scaffold first, detail second.
5. The 20 pivot points are not 20 memorizations. Every scenario runs the same universal flow: FM DJ voice → mirror + 4-second silence → acknowledge → question as fallback → PRICE → re-close → T.O. chain. Automate that one flow plus the five-category money diagnosis (Value / Affordability / Timing / Comparison / Structure), and the 20 scenarios collapse into routing decisions, not scripts. That is a 90% reduction in memorization load.
6. Pressure inoculation. Solo reps build knowledge; randomized partner drills build performance. The gap between knowing it in the truck and executing it at the kitchen table only closes with a live partner throwing cold objections.

The Four Phases

Phase	Timeline	Focus	Pass Condition
1 — Skeleton	Week 1	Blank-page recall: 4 phases, 12 steps in order. Nothing else.	Write it cold in 90 seconds, 3 days in a row.
2 — Verbatim Anchors	Weeks 2–5	One anchor script per week, out loud, standing, in the voice.	Script delivered word-for-word, 5 clean reps, zero reads.
3 — Universal Flow	Weeks 5–8	Mirror + 4-second silence to automaticity, then money diagnosis speed (Drills 1 and 2).	Drill 1: zero talk inside 4 seconds, zero pitch rise. Drill 2: 7 of 8 routed correctly.
4 — Interleaved Routing	Ongoing	Partner throws randomized objections from all 20 scenarios. Name the category, run the flow,	Correct routing under randomization, no-oriented phrasing intact.

		route the play.
--	--	-----------------	--

Rule: do not advance a phase until the pass condition is met. Ten feet deep, two feet wide — one thing at a time, drilled past mastery, never dropped from rotation.

Phase 2 — Weekly Anchor Script Schedule

Week	Anchor Script	Owning Step / KPI
2	Upfront Contract + Safe Space close	Step 3 • KPI 7
3	GoodLeap soft pull transition + funding intro	Step 2B • KPIs 5–6
4	Final Bridge	Step 8 • KPI 12
5	Price & Value Guarantee	Step 9 • KPI 15

Delivery standard: out loud, standing, FM DJ voice where the script calls for it. Silent reading does not count as a rep. Quote each script from its owning document — one source of truth.

The Daily 20 Minutes — Non-Negotiable Split

- Minutes 1–5 — Blank-page recall of prior material. Yesterday's script, last week's phase skeleton, whatever is in rotation. From memory, before anything is opened.
- Minutes 6–15 — Out-loud reps on current material. This week's anchor script or drill, performed at full delivery standard, five clean reps.
- Minutes 16–20 — Flashcard review of misses. Missed lines and missed routings recycle until nailed twice.

Spaced rotation: old material returns on a widening schedule — 2 days, 4 days, 7 days, 14 days. Nothing mastered ever leaves the rotation; it just comes back less often.

The Weekly Live Drill — 30 Minutes With a Partner

One session per week, randomized, scored pass/fail against the drill's stated pass condition. The six drills live in the Pivot Points Playbook:

- Drill 1 — Mirror Discipline. 3 sets of 8. Pass: zero talking inside the 4 seconds, zero pitch rise.
- Drill 2 — Diagnosis Speed. 2 sets of 8. Pass: 7 of 8 routed correctly with no-oriented phrasing intact.
- Drill 3 — Parachute Delivery. 5 reps. Pass: pact called out with accusation audit, exit-sell line inside the parachute only, date and time locked.
- Drill 4 — Silence Endurance. 2 sets of 5. Pass: no value points volunteered, no discount language, silence held until the partner breaks it.
- Drill 5 — One-Legger Protocol. 3 reps. Pass: full inspection offered, zero pricing, return visit locked with day and time.
- Drill 6 — Outside-Voice Diagnosis. 2 sets of 6. Pass: senior scenario always ends in a family invitation; trade-family concedes price and wins on accountability; first-timer routes to the ownership question.

The Closed Loop

Real appointments are the exam. Red Panda grades the exam against all 22 KPIs. The graded call assigns the next drill. The drill becomes next week's live session. That loop — appointment → grade → drill → appointment — is the retention system. Nothing gets practiced that a real call did not expose, and nothing a real call exposed goes unpracticed.

Burnout Rules

- No marathon sessions. 20 minutes daily plus one 30-minute weekly drill is the ceiling, not the floor to exceed.
- One anchor script per week. Stacking two is how retention halves and frustration doubles.
- Misses are data, not failure. A missed line goes to the flashcard stack and comes back tomorrow. That is the system working.
- Movement over motivation. The protocol runs on schedule, not on mood.

THIS WEEK: Phase 1 only. Blank page, 90 seconds, 12 steps in order. Do not touch a pivot point until that is automatic.

New Era Roofs · Internal Training · One source of truth per script — quote scripts from the owning document.